INDIA'S PLAN FOR PEACE IS BEING STUDIED

Proposal to Let Small Nations Seek a Path to End Korean War Receives Hearing By Big Three

MALIK REMAINS SILENT

Lake Success, Aug. 15.—(P)—The Security Council's big battle today studied an Indian proposal to let the small nations seek a path to peace in the Korean war.

As the council recessed until Thursday afternoon, Indian delegate Sir Benegal N. Rau suggested that the six elected, non-permanent members might be better able to find a solution in public and private meetings at which cold warring Russian and American delegates were not present.

Rau suggested that such a "little council" study "all resolutions or proposals that have been or may be presented for a peaceful and just settlement in Korea and submit their recommendations to the council by a specified date."

The western Big Three—France, Britain and the United States—gave the idea a cordial reception in principle but said they would like to hear more details.

However, Russia's delegate and the current council president, Jakob A. Malik, made no reference to the Indian suggestion in statements, lashing back at Norwegian and French attacks on the way he has been filling the chair.

The council yesterday continued without solution—its procedural war of words over the Russian-opposed proposal to let a South Korean delegate sit in on the session.

Continuing the western counter to Malik's speech-making, both the Norwegian and French delegates said the Russian president—by failing to make rulings for the council to act on—had not fulfilled his presidential functions.

France's Jean Chauvel, accused Malik of a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde act."

The "little council" would be composed of India, Yugoslavia and Norway, all of which have recognized the Chinese Communists, and Cuba, Ecuador and Egypt, which have not.

The Communist Chinese question would figure only in considering the Soviet resolution on seating North Korean representatives because it also calls for seating a Chinese Communist, at least as an interested party.

Rau said none of the group could be accused of having expansionist aims.

Daughter Born Early Today To British Royal Family Is Third In Line To Ascend the Throne

London, Aug. 15.—(P)—Princess Elizabeth, heiress presumptive to the British throne, gave birth today to her second child—a daughter.

The baby came at 11:50 a. m. (5:50 a. m. EST). An official announcement was issued one hour and four minutes later.

The royal birth provides a sister playmate for 21-month-old Prince Charles, next in line to his mother in succession to the British throne. The new princess becomes third in line of succession.

A bulletin issued by the royal physician said:

"Her royal highness Princess Elizabeth, Duchess of Edinburgh, was safely delivered of a princess at 11:50 a. m. Her royal highness and her daughter are both doing well."

Civilian Defense Chief To Talk Here Thursday

Announcement was made today by Judge Allison D. Wace, coordinator, and W. F. Clinger, deputy coordinator, that Col. Lewis Acker, head of the Pennsylvania Civilian Defense organization, will be in Warren Thursday evening for a public meeting at the court house at nine o'clock.

Col. Acker will give a talk outlining plans for Civilian Defense, and the important part Warren county is expected to play in the program, after which pictures of the A-Bomb attack on Hiroshima will be shown. Every person interested is cordially invited to attend. Further details for the meeting will be announced later.

Efforts Pressed To Avert a Nationwide Railroad Stoppage

Washington, Aug. 15.—(P)—The White House continued efforts today to avert a possible nationwide railroad strike but union officials said they are near "the end of our rope."

Chiefs of two big unions representing 300,000 trainmen and conductors agreed "reluctantly" to go back (1 p. m. EST) for more peace talks with John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman.

Slam-Bang Battle Over Foreign Policy Shapes Up In Congressional Campaigns

Washington, Aug. 15.—(P)—A slam-bang battle over foreign policy shaped up today in the congressional campaign with Democrats and Republicans blaming each other for the Korean war.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, took the firing line to accuse Democrats of trying to "whitewash the Truman administration's blunders that paved the way for war in South Korea."

Senator McMahon, Democratic senator running for re-election in Connecticut, charged Wherry and a majority of the senate Republicans with having "fought almost every administration effort to keep Europe out of the hands of the Communists."

After a shouting word battle over the issue in the senate yesterday, both sides agreed today that the people are going to hear a lot about foreign policies and the men who make them before the November voting.

Democrats leveled fresh attacks on a statement by four Republican members of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS MEET IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 15.—(P)—The 68th annual supreme convention of the Knights of Columbus opened here today with the major object of launching a program to fight Communism.

The order will call on its membership of nearly 800,000, on all Catholic laymen, and on Americans generally to back the nation in its effort to end the Communist menace, Thomas F. McEvilly, the convention's executive chairman, said.

Fifteen hundred persons marched down Fifth Avenue to St. Patrick's Cathedral and attended a solemn pontifical mass that opened the three-day convention.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, celebrant of the mass, greeted the delegates at the cathedral steps.

Leaders of the order will also ask for an expanded program of Militant Catholic Action, and for a prayer crusade to bring the Russian people back to the church.

REDS' NAKTONG BULGE CUT IN HALF—Reinforced U. S. 24th Division troops attacked Red's six-mile Changnyong beachhead (1) and drove the enemy halfway back to the Naktong River. On the west front, Reds massed up to 60,000 men (Communist symbols) along a 20-mile front for major drive against Taegu (2). On the east front (3), Americans held and fought for U. S. airport south of Pohang, abandoned by U. S. airmen. South Koreans launched counter-attacks from Magok and Kigye areas to cut off main body from Red forces holding Pohang. In the south, Yanks continued slugging towards Chunju (4), with Marines occupying high ground just east of Sachon. On north front (5), North and South Koreans were locked in large-scale battle.

Mayor O'Dwyer, of New York, To Be Nominated As Ambassador to Mexico

Washington, Aug. 15.—(P)—The White House announced today that President Truman will nominate Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York City as ambassador to Mexico.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters—the nomination will be sent to the senate about Sept. 1.

Ross said O'Dwyer would resign as mayor of New York about that time. The resignation will mean a mayoralty election campaign in New York this fall.

Ross made the announcement while O'Dwyer was at the White House conferring with the president. He said O'Dwyer had agreed at the conference to take the appointment.

In Mexico City, O'Dwyer would succeed Ambassador Walter Thurston, 56, a career diplomat.

Ross said Thurston would be given another top-level diplomatic assignment, but did not indicate what that assignment might be.

O'Dwyer himself refused to say anything to reporters when he left his conference with the president.

Reporters asked O'Dwyer when he was going to Mexico City.

"No statement," he replied.

In response to other questions, he said he planned to fly back to New York at 5 p. m.

O'Dwyer, 60, has been mayor of New York since 1945. He first ran for the office in 1941 but was beaten that year by Fiorello H. La Guardia who was elected for a third term.

Born in County Mayo, Ireland, O'Dwyer came to the United States when he was 20 years old.

Fight Manager And Two Others Held In Shooting Affray

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—(P)—Frank (Blinky) Palermo, manager of Lightweight Champion Ike Williams, was held in $5,000 bail today for further hearing next Tuesday on charges growing out of a South Philadelphia gun fight.

Magistrate George Levin of police court also held, in bail of $5,000 each, James Singleton, 44, and Joseph Coffey, 45, both of Philadelphia. Coffey was returned to Philadelphia last night after having extradition at Margate, N. J., where he had been arrested.

All three were charged with reckless use of firearms, violation of the firearms act, assault with intent to kill, and aiding and abetting an illegal lottery.

The shooting fray broke out last Saturday.

Detective Inspector Richard Doyle has accused Palermo and Singleton of being partners in a large numbers bank here, and named Coffey as the bank's "strongarm man."

Police said the shooting developed from an argument between numbers writers and the bank operators who refused to pay off on a "hit."

Palermo and Singleton surrendered at City Hall today.

None of the three defendants testified at the 15-minute hearing which attracted a full house of spectators.

Lemuel B. Schofield, attorney for Singleton and Coffey, said he and Morton Witkin, Palermo's attorney, had "advised these men, through their friends to surrender."

Doyle said the shooting stemmed from a "welsh" on a 75-cent numbers bet that should have paid the better $350. No one was hurt in the exchange of shots.

QUAKE RECORDED

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 15.—(P)—An earthquake described as "very large and distant" was recorded at University of California at 7:23:40 a. m. P.D.T. today. At Seattle, the University of Washington geology department reported at 9:15 a. m. (P.D.T.) today that its seismograph was recording a "tremendous earthquake, the largest yet recorded on our instruments." The exact time of starting could not be obtained, nor directions determined until records are removed from the machine and developed, the department officials said.

Enemy Forces Surge To Points Seven Miles East of River In Bitterest Fighting of the War

Naktong River Sector—U. S. troops thrown back as much as seven miles in savage Red attack on southern flank in Changnyong sector 23 miles southwest of Taegu. U. S. holds positions in center and north on Changnyong front. Reds ram 3,000 troops across Naktong in Waegwan sector to north, where 60,000 Red troops mass for Taegu push.

Southern Front: U. S. negro troops seize rocky crag in Chinju drive in one of bitterest hand-to-hand battles of war.

Northeast Front: Americans and South Koreans retake two towns near Pohang, former U. S. supply base now in Red hands.

Air and Sea War: U. S. and Australian planes fly 400 sorties in support of troops along fronts. Heavy bombings have knocked out Wonsan oil refinery in North Korea completely. Air Force announces it dropped 23,000 bombs—7,000 tons—on strategic targets in month. Warships rake Red positions on east coast. Carrier planes knock out two Red ships.

Lake Success: United Nations studies Indian proposal that non-permanent Security Council members try to find way out of Korean stalemate and submit recommendations.

Tokyo, Wednesday, Aug. 16.—(P)—Red troops with tanks burst out of the Naktong defense line today below Changnyong and surged to points seven miles east of the river.

They overran segments of the U. S. 24th Infantry Division in bitter fighting that piled up casualties on both sides.

General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo early Wednesday announced his usual morning report would be omitted because there had been no change in the South Korean situation. The headquarters war summaries usually are hours behind field dispatches.

The Allied resistance to the Communists had slowed the Red war time-table. North Korean prisoners said the schedule called for capture of Taegu, South Korea's emergency capital, on Tuesday, sixth anniversary of V-J Day, and of Korea's liberation from Japan.

The Changnyong fighting was bloody but indecisive.

Thirty miles northward along the snaking river U. S. and Red troops were reported throwing everything at each other but not getting anywhere.

A field dispatch said the Reds surged six or seven miles east of the Naktong on their deepest penetration in the Changnyong sector.

The Red gain was considered serious but an American divisional staff officer said:

"We are still confident we can push the Gooks back across the river but it may take time."

One Red battalion fought desperately to link up with guerrillas behind the Americans.

A Russian-made Yak plane, on the first North Korean combat mission in days, dropped two 500 pound bombs on Masan, southern port, and strafed the important communications center to the rear of U. S. lines.

Frontline reports said the Reds at Changnyong, 23 miles southwest of Taegu, rubbed out most of the gains made by the hard fighting 24th Division Monday.

Taegu is the South Republic's emergency capital and objective of 60,000 Reds poised in the Waegwan sector, 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

Red tanks and armored cars hit hard in the Waegwan area. They availed themselves of a Russian.

HOME FRONT MOBILIZATION UNDER DEBATE

Washington, Aug. 15.—(P)—Senate Republicans, divided over how far to go in mobilization of the home front, called a conference today to discuss the issue.

In advance of the closed meeting, Senator Ives (R-N. Y.) told a reporter the session probably would change few opinions and come nowhere near achieving GOP unanimity. Any recommendations by a majority in the party pow-wow would not bind the minority.

The Republicans arranged their huddle as the senate itself headed for another round of voting on proposed amendments to an administration-blessed economic controls bill which prompted the meeting of GOP senators.

The bill, similar to one already approved by the house, would give President Truman an almost free hand to invoke wage-price rationing controls whenever he saw fit. It also would authorize credit controls, allocation of scarce industrial materials, and other production controls.

The senate approved by voice late yesterday an amendment which would guarantee the meat packing industry a "reasonable margin of profit" if Mr. Truman decided to put price ceilings on meat.

Senator Maybank (D-S. C.), sponsor of the amendment, said its "one and only purpose" is to prevent a revival of World War II meat shortages and black markets.

What effect the provision would have on any retail meat price ceilings could not be forecast with any accuracy.

The amendment is almost identical to one which congress wrote into the OPA law in 1945.

American Bombers Fly 230 Sorties In Adverse Weather

Tokyo, Aug. 15.—(P)—American fighter planes machinegunned a group of 300 North Korean Reds east of the Naktong river in the U. S. First Cavalry Division sector today and killed or wounded 100.

An Air Force spokesman at American Eighth Army headquarters in Korea said the planes also destroyed three of 12 enemy tanks located west of the Naktong in the same area.

The Air Force flew 230 sorties today despite unfavorable weather, the spokesman said. The attacks were concentrated northwest of Waegwan on the central front where large Red forces were being assembled.

The returning fliers reported increasing enemy troop concentrations along the northern front, defended by South Korean forces. The airmen strafed nine Red tanks moving toward the South Korean defense line but the results of the attacks were not known.

The pilots also reported they knocked out seven of nine pieces of horsedrawn artillery near Kunwi, 22 miles north of the emergency South Korean capital of Taegu.

Jet and Mustang fighters and light bombers hammered North Korean communication lines and supply dumps all along the battle-front Tuesday with "excellent results."

F-80 Shooting Star jets struck the rail yard in the Waegwan.

Break Appears In Johnsonburg Strike

Johnsonburg, Aug. 15.—(P)—Woodward workers at the New York and Pennsylvania Company paper plant here, on strike for 20 days, voted last night to withdraw picket lines that have kept the plant's 1500 employees from working.

An official of Local 12218, United Mine Workers, said the strike was not over but that the action was a "big break" in it.

The 60 workers who handle pulp wood for paper walked out in protest against hiring of non-union employees.

The yard workers are not due to be called into work until tomorrow. The union spokesman said he did not know if they will report for duty.

Thousands Flock To Wisconsin Town For Virgin Visitation Forecast By Woman

Necedah, Wis., Aug. 15.—(P)—Roman Catholic Bishop John Treacy early today cancelled his order forbidding special religious services at the parish of the woman who claims she will be visited by the Virgin Mary at noon.

Earlier the bishop of La Crosse had banned anything more than the two regular masses at St. Francis church in Necedah. Today is the feast of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary, a Holy Day requiring attendance at mass by Catholics. The bishop's order had meant many of the thousands streaming into the village might have been unable to attend regular services.

With the command rescinded, visiting priests started saying mass at 4 a. m. in St. Francis' church and in the parish hall.

Meanwhile, the gaunt, prematurely aged mother of seven children waited for what she maintains will be her seventh visit from the virgin.

Mrs. Mary Anna Van Hoof attended the regular 6:45 a. m. mass today, kneeling in the first pew of St. Francis church with her husband, Fred, and their 13-year-old daughter Jo Ann. The 41-year-old woman's six other children were to attend later services.

All through the night autos and buses continued to bring in visitors.

Thousands of people are here. There is no way actually to estimate their number. Some believe with Mrs. Van Hoof that the visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary will take place at noon today. Others are merely curious, while still others frankly scoff at her claims but are present anyway.

The visitors jammed every available highway leading into this little town of 1,000 on the Yellow River through yesterday and last night despite admonitions from the Catholic hierarchy to members.

Four Crewmen Dead In Crash of a B-29

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 15.—(P)—Four crewmen were killed when a crippled B-29 bomber crashed in a field near here yesterday afternoon, then burst into flames only 200 feet from a cluster of small frame houses.

Eight crewmen escaped with minor injuries.

The four-engined bomber, from Barksdale Air Force Base, Shreveport, La., apparently was attempting to land at Carswell Air Force Base, two miles south of the crash scene.

The plane hit and began flaming as it plowed crazily along the ground for almost half a mile.

Three charred bodies were removed from the nose sections of the plane and one from the center section.

Among those injured was Capt. Robert A. Dibble, Allentown, Pa., commander-pilot.

Witnesses said something appeared wrong with the ship's landing gear and the craft apparently went out of control while the pilot was attempting to land.

The plane carried no bombs.

Local Boards In Area Have Induction And Pre-Induction Examination Quotas

Harrisburg, Aug. 15.—(P)—Local draft boards operating under the Altona, Erie and Wilkes-Barre stations today had their induction and pre-induction physical examination quotas.

The induction quotas represent the boards' share of the September call while the pre-induction physical examination figures are for the October quota.

Henry M. Gross, state draft director, said the first call was limited to the three centers in order to avoid a jam-up of inductees at any one station. The September draftees will report for induction from Aug. 28 to Sept. 5.

Other local boards will be sent their quotas for September as soon as they are prepared, Gross said.

Gross also disclosed that 1,838 men were accepted between July 27 and Aug. 10 of 5,624 ordered to report for physical examinations. Local boards actually delivered 4420 men.

Of the 1,204 which the boards failed to deliver, 515 were listed as failing to report; 16 had moved; 137 were transferred to another board; 139 were married and 264 reconsidered by the board.

Gross also said most boards are now down to the 22-year age group.

Quotas for boards reporting to the Erie induction center on Aug. 29 (brackets indicate board number, then its location and number of men called):

(45) Emporium 9; (51) Meadville 44; (71) Oil City 18, and (148) Coudersport 11.

Additional induction dates for boards were listed as September 5, 16, 18, and 19 with quotas to be announced later.

29 Charges Levelled Against School Officials In Olean

Olean—A total of 29 charges have been leveled by a parent against two top school administrators in identical letters to members of the Olean Board of Education.

Mrs. Marion M. Mead, 107 Garfield Court, who identified herself as an individual and a parent of school children made 19 specific charges against Superintendent of Schools Donald M. Keagle and 10 more against Principal Ernest H. Hoeltke, of Olean High School.

The complaints were alluded to during the August school board meeting when President John M. Woods was referred Mrs. Mead's communication to the Teachers and Employees Committee of the board for "careful study". He directed the committee to make its report during the Sept. 12 board meeting.

Mrs. Mead's communication was not read. It was learned that her charges concern principally administrative matters. Some relate to recent tenure wrangle involving Theodore Mastrogiacono, who was dismissed as a history instructor and head football coach at the end of his three year probationary term, and others to similar teachers problems.

Productive Power Subject of Movie At Erie Wednesday

Local business and industrial representatives will join with others of northwestern Pennsylvania Wednesday for a showing of "Productive Power" in the ballroom of the Lawrence Hotel, Erie, at 7:30 p. m.

"Productive Power", a demonstration of modern electrical equipment, is arranged and presented by the Westinghouse Electric Corp. The Erie showing is being sponsored by the Pennsylvania Electric Company.

Designed to show manufacturers how electricity can help them produce better, faster and more economically, "Productive Power" is on a nation-wide tour that will take it to 125 cities.

Westinghouse engineers will present demonstrations to show the many ways in which electricity can help to increase production and lower costs.

Attending the demonstration will be representatives from Erie, Meadville, Corry, Oil City, Titusville, Franklin, Warren, Bradford and other area towns. More than 200 are expected to attend.

THE MARKETS

New York, Aug. 15—(P)—The stock market sauntered along a narrow price route today. Traders were again dominated by the same caution which was apparent yesterday and few issues changed more than 50 cents a share. Gains had a slight edge over losses.

Business was just about at the same slow rate as Monday which was the slowest session in a couple of months. In the TV department higher prices were paid for Admiral, Emerson, Philco, Motorola and Zenith.

Packing house shares responded mildly to news of a senate vote that any price ceilings on meat at the packer-wholesaler level must allow a reasonable margin of profit. Boosted a bit were Armour, Cudahy and Wilson. Also ahead were U. S. Steel, Lockhead, Kennecott Copper, Deep Rock Oil, and U. S. Gypsum.

LAVERN HINSDALE

Lavern Hinsdale, who died last Thursday morning at his home, 11518 South Laurel avenue, Norwalk, Calif., was a native of Lander, but had spent the past four and one-half years in the California city.

Surviving are his wife, Nora Hinsdale; two children, Mrs. Mildred McKittrick and Myron Hinsdale, both of Norwalk; two grandchildren, Mrs. Merle Bender, Norwalk, and Arnold Hinsdale, La Habra, Calif.; also four great-grandchildren; one brother, Earl, Hubbard, O.; three sisters, Gertrude, Buffalo, N. Y.; Pearl and Mable, Fredonia, N. Y. Besides these, there are many nieces and nephews.

HENRY SWANSON, JR.

At 2:30 p. m. Monday in First Lutheran church, Pastor Edward K. Rogers conducted the funeral of Henry Swanson, Jr., 204 North South street, who lost his life when his car was struck by a railroad engine at Starbuck on Thursday evening. Music for the service was played by Mrs. Dorothy Engstrom, church organist.

Serving as bearers for interment in Oakland cemetery were Chester Nelson, Clyde Simonsen, Floyd Ahlquist, August Keller, Willard Smith and Albert Satterlund.

Among the many in attendance were the following from away: Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nystrom, Mrs. Gunhild Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Swanson, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swanson, DuBois; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strong, Canton, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Morrow, Cleveland, O.; Mrs. Albert Johnson, Mrs. Inar Anderson, Mrs. William Hendrickson, Mrs. Allan Nelson, Carl Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. John Meurer, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Healey, Mr. and Mrs. George Swanson, Jack Meurer, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Meurer, Jamestown, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Inar Olson, Mrs. Anna Fisk, Mrs. Daisy Johnson, Youngsville; Mr. Dallas and Zakariah Miller, Philadelphia.

MISS LENA G. LESSER

Miss Lena G. Lesser, daughter of the late Conrad and Catherine Smutz Lesser and lifelong resident of the community, died early this morning in the family home, 308 West Third avenue. She was active for many years in the management of the West Third avenue store operated by The Misses Lesser. She leaves to mourn her passing one sister, Miss Catherine E. Lesser.

Private services in her memory will be held from the family home at 2:30 p. m. Friday. Dr. H. A. Rinard, retired Lutheran minister, will officiate and interment will be made in the family plot in Oakland cemetery.

Compromise Made In Furniture Strike

Paramount Furniture Company workers were scheduled to meet at 3:30 this afternoon to consider a compromise offer by the management for ending a two-day strike at the south side plant.

The union, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, AFL, had asked a 10-cent an hour wage boost, paid holidays, and union shop.

Company representatives and the union's negotiating committee, met with James Odessa, of Erie, a representative of the state mediation service, last night.

At that time, it was reported, the company offered a five-cent an hour wage boost, with a wage reopening clause effective in six months, revision of the method of determining vacation rates, and other adjustments.

It is this offer that will be considered at the employees' meeting this afternoon.

The plant employs about 110 workers.

Efforts Pressed to Avert Nation Railroad Stoppage

W. P. Kennedy of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and R. O. Hughes of the Order of Railway Conductors said they could see nothing accomplished at a four-hour meeting with Steelman last night. They said Steelman, however, was optimistic something could be worked out today.

But, said Kennedy, "unless we make some progress, it looks like we will be at the end of our rope."

A spokesman for the railroads told reporters, contrary to what Kennedy had said, that progress was being made in the conference with Steelman. The carrier spokesman also predicted that meetings will continue beyond today, despite union talk of a deadline.

Kennedy spoke of possible wildcat strikes, contending that the members of the two unions are "all upset over this deal." He said the dispute has gone unsettled now for 17 months and the men are anxious to strike.

The unions are seeking a reduction from the present 48-hour week to a 40-hour week for workers in yard service—without loss in pay. A presidential board recommended the shorter work week but not as much pay as the unions desired.

style submerged suspension bridge to move a regiment, about 3,000 men, and tanks over the river against South Korean defenders. Such bridges are built just below the water's surface to hide them from observer detection and are capable of supporting armored river-crossings.

A U. S. 8th Army communique issued at 9:05 p. m. Tuesday (6:05 a. m., E. S. T.) said the South Koreans successfully counterattacked the river-crossers near Waegwan and found that Allied air support presumably had knocked out Red armored cars.

Intelligence officers were unable to learn whether the Waegwan crossing was the beginning of the expected smash by 60,000 Communist troops massed there or whether the Reds were feeling South Korean lines for a weak spot.

As the critical river front battle in the center shaped up, gallant U. S. negro foot soldiers stormed the "Little Cassino" redoubt seven miles northwest of Masan. Masan is a south coast port 27 air miles west of Pusan, No. 1 U. S. Supply base on the southeast tip of the peninsula.

The fight went into hand-to-hand combat with bayonets and rifle stocks used as clubs. The negroes, capturing the craggy heights, freed some 200 wounded U. S. artillerymen who had been pinned down by the Communists in last week's westward drive to Chinju by Marines and Army infantrymen.

In the northeast American troops captured Yuklong, nine miles west of Pohang air base on the Sea of Japan coast.

South Korea's Capitol Division smashed down from the north and took the town of Imam nearby. Combined Allied forces moved to within half a mile of Pohang, second most important port on the east coast until the Communists overran it last week.

But the hardest fighting Tuesday night was centered below Changnyong.

Five of the last six monarchs, including the present king, George VI, were at times ranked third before they inherited the imperial crown.

The new baby, however, could lose her rank as third in line to any children born to her brother, Prince Charles.

Princess Elizabeth herself was third in the line when she was born 24 years ago. The death of her grandfather, George V, and the abdication of Edward VIII—now the Duke of Windsor—for the love of Wallis Simpson put her father on the throne and made her heiress-presumptive. Edward, too, ranked third when he was born.

Steel Industry Now Rumbling Toward A Record Production

By The Associated Press

While much of American industry scrambles to convert for war, basic steel rumbles on at a record production rate awaiting only the government's signal for a comparatively simple quick change.

War conversion for basic steel—producers of the raw product that will be tooled by other industries into guns, tanks, ships and other fighting implements—essentially would be a matter only of rescheduling its production.

There is no machinery to take out of "moth balls," no production lines to halt for retooling, no necessity for hiring new workers or retraining old ones.

A spokesman for United States Steel Corp., the nation's production giant, put it this way:

"Our biggest problem at the start of the last war was changing from the production of sheet steel to steel plates. That did not tax us too much.

"And, of course, we did not have the production of ingots (raw steel) then that we have now.

"Our finishing capacity is about 60 per cent greater than our ingot capacity.

"That means that we can switch from concentration on one to another of basic steel forms without interrupting our flow of raw steel.

"All we need is the word from Uncle Sam."

The steel industry now is producing about 101 per cent of rated capacity. This amounts to about 14 per cent more than the rest of the world combined.

Only about one per cent of this output presently is going into government—or war—work. The industry expects that figure to reach about ten per cent for the military production program the government currently plans.

However, the fear of a big switch to war output by basic steel has spurred a flood of orders from manufacturers of non-military products.

Essay Contest To Be a Feature of the Pa. Week Program

Harrisburg—A group of nine Pennsylvania retailers is assisting 1950 State Retail Chairman George L. Stearns, 2nd, President, L. L. Sterns and Sons, Williamsport, in planning statewide participation in Pennsylvania Week, October 16 to 22.

Highlighting the extensive program planned by the retailers is the annual Quiz-Essay contest, open to all Pennsylvania High School seniors. The contest will be sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by the Pennsylvania Retailers Association, according to Mr. Stearns who is president of the Association.

Essay contest is the oldest continuing feature of the Pennsylvania Week observance and each year sees greater participation among Pennsylvania youth. Secretary of Commerce Theodore Roosevelt, III, commented.

Kathleen Reiff, Ashland student at Immaculate Heart Academy, Fountain Springs, won the $1,000 first prize in the 1949 Quiz-Essay contest. Second prize of $500 went to Larry Newman, Sunbury High School, and third prize to Francis Corcoran, St. Joseph's High School, Williamsport.

The prizes provided by the Retailers Association total $2500 per year.

Mr. Stearns' 1950 regional Retail Chairmen are: Russell J. Charles, General Manager, Bowman's Department Store, Inc., Harrisburg; Albert Coons, Vice-President Allied Stores, Inc., Lebanon; Louis Eisman, Manager, Worth's, Williamsport; George P. Gable, President, William F. Gable Company, Erie.

Hal Boyle's Comment

BY DON WHITEHEAD
(For Hal Boyle)

With U. S. Troops in Korea—
(P)—An American pilot took a look at the way earthbound creatures live in this war. Then he decided maybe he was lucky to be spending his time flying over enemy lines.

The pilot is Lt. Baird King of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He flies one of those little planes that hover over enemy lines spotting targets for the 25th Infantry Division
artillery.

King did the same job in World War II. Sometimes he felt he was having a pretty rough go of it.

But the other day he agreed to sy two correspondents from the frontline area back to a coast city where they could send out their stories of the day's fighting.

It was almost dark when King landed his four-seater plane at the strip outside the city. The two reporters suggested King stay at the airstrip where he could get food, a shower and bed.

Then problem was to get into the city and telephone their stories to Tokyo for relay to the United States.

King said hesitantly: "Would you mind if I stayed with you?
I'd like to see how reporters
work."

It was 8 p. m. and a captain at the strip said there was no transportation available to go into the city. — a 40-minute ride over washboard roads.

Then somebody said "a wrecker is pulling a wrecked truck out of a ditch down the road. Maybe the driver would give you a lift."

King trudged along with us a half mile down a dusty road to where the big wrecker was working. A corporal said "sure, we'll take you as soon as we snake this wreck out."

So we stood watching the boys
work while swarms of mosquitoes and night-flying insects concentrated on King.

An hour and a half later the wreck was tied snugly to the wrecker and we climbed aboard.
The four-ton monster joggled over the roads. We stopped once to pick up another wrecked vehicle and then we were finally dumped off at the city limits.

We finished our work at 4 a. m.
After another 30 minutes we managed to get a ride to a replace-

At 6:30 a. m., we shook King, who was asleep, and told him we had to get moving. We bathed under a trickle of water dripping from a shower nozzle, grabbed a hasty breakfast and hitched another ride back to the airstrip
where King's plane was parked.

We were soon back at the forward landing strip.

"Where are you headed now?"
King asked.

Toward the front, we told him.
American troops were on the move and it was a story we had to have.

King shook his head slowly.
"From here on," he said, "I'll never gripe at my job. You guys are nuts."

CARRIERS AND CRAFT

In the final months of World War II, the United States Navy had 100 aircraft carriers with 2,500 planes in the Pacific, according in the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The RANGE DOCTOR

by OSCAR J. FRIEND

Chapter 7
STARTLED by her vehemence,
he soothed her. "Don't fret, Mrs. Plum. Certainly, I swear I'll come back when you send for me."

Frowning, Logan gathered up his paraphernalia and went out of the cabin. The bearded man was waiting for him on the little porch.

"Wait!" he demanded curtly.
"Your wife will be all right if my instructions are followed," Logan replied as shortly.

"How much I owe ye?"

"The visit is five dollars. The medicine was seventy-five cents."

"I'll send yore money to ye.
Just don't come back here. Understand?"

Logan looked his amazement.
"But your wife—"

"That's all right. Plunk out him off in grim finality, plunk him in the chest with a thick forefinger.
"Don't forget what I said. Don't come back."

Logan could not speak.

IT WAS Saturday morning and Logan was putting the final touches to his private office pouching the arrival of the special pieces of furniture ordered through Hawkins. The editor was busy with a can of white paint.

"Bob," he said casually, "you remember what I told you last Sunday—about the Hohner land company?"

"Yes, sir," Logan paused in his
work.

"Well, we're having a private meeting in the back room tonight to discuss the situation and lay plans accordingly. Only a few of the solid citizens—Judge Steele, Hawkins, Jackson, and Over-

street."

"That's probably a good idea," Logan agreed. "What sort of plans?"

"You'll hear all about it tonight.
I—hello! Yonder comes Over-

street."

Logan looked out. The owner of the Texas Tommy, natty and trim in his well-tailored white linens and expensive Panama hat with a gray silk band, was crossing the street.

"I see Henry Barton's in town."

Chapter 8

AS the days slowly lengthened into weeks the status of Dr.
Logan showed no indication of change. Of medical practice there was little save that on the Texas Tommy. What hope he had that people would gradually come around to a sensible view of his clash with the veterinary withdrawn away.

He occupied himself during the day, when not engaged in his meagre practice or helping out with the newspaper, by diligent study of his medical works. He was thus engaged the morning that a mild-mannered man with faded blue eyes came into the building.

"Mr. Griggsby in?"

Logan shook his head. "No.
He's over in Clearwater today on business. Can I help you? Is it something about the newspaper?"

"No," said the visitor, hesitating. "You're the new doctor, ain't you? My name's George Pelham.
Judge Steele sent me over to talk with Griggsby. I got a letter here . . . His voice trailed off as he waved the paper in his hand impotently.

"Yes!" Logan encouraged him politely.

"I don't know what to do," Pelham went on wearily. "I got to see the Hohner land people, and
—here, you read the letter."

Logan accepted the letter and looked at it. It was from the Hohner Land Development Company. In brief, it informed the perplexed Pelham that a flaw had been discovered in his title to the fruit ranch and requested him to call at the land office when next in town at which time matters could doubtless be satisfactorily straightened out. Logan's eyes came to rest on the bold signature at the bottom, and a queer feeling went through him. John Naylor! One of the men who had killed his father.

Logan folded the letter and handed it back. "Look, Mr. Pelham, I'm not very busy this morning. If you'd like, I'll go with you to see this man."

too," said Logan, sighting a horseman farther along the street.

The two newcomers entered the newspaper building together.

"Morning, gentlemen," the vibrant voice of Overstreet greeted.
"I was just dropping in on a courtesy call, but Barton and I agree
we should all wet our whistles."

Griggsby promptly put down his pair of breeches. "At times you're right sensible, Henry."

"Let's go over to the Royal Flush?" suggested Overstreet pleasantly.

The bartender was pouring drinks when the bathing doors were suddenly flung violently open and the horse doctor came striding into the house.

"Hey, Logan!" he growled, confronting the young physician. "I hear you been ridin' my range."

Logan frowned. "I don't understand, Dr. Bryant."

"Oh, yes, yuh do," Bryant said
in a loud voice. "Jesse Plum's wife.
I'll put it plain. When a feller trespasses on fenced range it means war!"

Logan felt embarrassed, then angry.

It seems to me, Dr. Bryant, he bit out, "that you're overstepping the limits of your practice. I was called to see Jesse Plum's wife, not his mule."

The horse doctor's face was a study in rage and astonishment.
"You're defyin' me?"

"I mean, since you insist on it,
that I'll go wherever I'm called to a sick-bed, and no illiterate horse doctor is going to prevent me, I mean."

"You mean," and the veterinary's voice became hard and brittle "yuh're retirin' from practice—permanent and immediate.
Reach for yore gun, Mister M.D."

But Dr. Logan did not take up the gauntlet. He stared at the man unbelievably.

"Are you mad, Dr. Bryant? I have no quarrel with you, and I won't let you force one on me."

"Draw!" repeated the horse doctor, almost in a frenzy. "Draw or leave town!"

"You're crazy. Listen, Dr.
Bryant, our task is to save lives, not to take them. Have you forgotten that you and I are the only doctors of any sort in this country?"

Chapter 9

"Will you?" Pelham brightened in gratitude. "Thanks, Doctor."

One of the clerks glanced at Pelham's letter and called to the man seated at the desk. "Mr.
Naylor. Two gents to see you."

Naylor had not changed much in nine years. He had turned a little grayer and put on a few pounds of weight, but he was still the active, wiry man who walked with the springy gunfighter's step that Logan remembered.

"This letter," you wrote me, Pelham said, "I don't understand anything. I bought my place full out from Banner Jennings four years ago. Paid him in cash. He'd owned the land for more'n five years. All the transactions are recorded with the county clerk.

I've never so much as had a kissage on the place. I don't see where you people have anything to do with it. What business is it of yours what kind of title I got?"

"I'll tell you," Naylor said, smiling pleasantly. "It goes back another step. Banner Jennings bought the property from the Perley sisters. This pair of old maids had a brother who owned a third interest in the land. His signature is not on the deed given to Banner Jennings. The Hohner Company represents Malcolm Perley, and we have been instructed to make a settlement with you."

"I won't pay out another cent," Pelham declared promptly.

"Mr. Perley is not asking you to. He wants the property back, and we are authorized to offer
you a thousand dollars for your shaky title. Now, how's that?"

"Crazy," said Mr. Pelham. "I paid more'n twice that for the place and I've spent that much in improvements. Besides which, I don't want to sell."

Logan found his eyes wandering towards the nearer shir-sleeved clerk who was completing an argument with another customer. He opened a cash drawer beneath the counter and dug out a hundred dollars in folding money as his client laboriously scrawled his name to a legal-looking paper.

Shirtsleeves tossed the docu-

Bryant spurned this conciliation savagely. His rage became tinged with contempt.

"You stay clear away from Jesse Plum's place or I'll blow you clean to Kingdom Come."

Logan's face went deadly pale.
His hand trembling, he turned away from the ugly veterinary and reached for his glass.

"Shall we drink, gentlemen?"
he asked huskily.

Overstreet's enigmatic expression did not change; his lean, aristocratic features might have been carved of stone. Barton tugged at his moustache, staring at Logan through narrowed eyes.
It was Griggsby who took up the horse doctor's challenge.

"I reckon you've said plenty,
Bryant. Haul your freight—now —before somebody more careless of medical skins takes a hand."

"Just a minute, Doc," Barton called. "I'm leavin' myself. You might ride out to Circle Bar this afternoon and lance a boil on my foreman's neck."

Overstreet calmly reached for his liquor. "I'm drinking with you, Dr. Logan," he said.

Logan shoved back his slender glass of emerald liquid.

"I can't drink it," he choked,
and walked out.

Later, he tried to make Griggs-
by understand.

"I couldn't have a regular saloon brawl with a horse doctor
over a human patient," Logan cried out passionately.

Griggsby shook his head. "Nothing should prevent a man from acting like a man. You needn't have killed Bryant, but you should have called his bluff."

"But I don't know how to bluff, Uncle Tom. I'm not built that way. If I had pulled my gun I'd have killed Bryant. Surely I can explain to Barton tonight and—"

"Son," the editor said soberly,
"I'm sorry—it hurts me—but I can't let you sit in on that meeting—now."

"All right," he cried. "I'll stay away. Let Barton think what he pleases. Let them all think I'm a coward unless I shoot a blustering old fool to prove I'm a hero.
So I'll stay a coward."

Chapter 10

The option on the Randall place," he murmured. Then, taking the pencil from behind his ear, he turned to a wall map and began to shade in a little section.

Logan watched him curiously.
He suddenly recognized the huge chart as a scale map of the Horseshoe Range country, and his eyes widened at the number of shaded areas checkerboarded there. Fully a fifth of the country surrounding Gila City was darkened with graphite. The Hohner Land Development Company was indistinctly snapping up the easy places. What would come next—with obstinate men like George Pelham?

"Take time to think it over,"
was Naylor's parting advice, and Logan detested him for his vul-
pine complacency.

Outside, the doctor counselled
the worried landholder. "I don't think they're bluffing. Mr. Pelham, but you sit tight and wait.
I know Hohner won't try to drag the deal through the courts. Takes too long for his kind of game."

LOGAN was telling Griggsby about the Pelham case the next morning when the sudden drumming of galloping hoofs along the street caused them both to glance towards the window.

They looked out the entrance as a blowing horse slid into view.
The unforgettable lanky figure of Slim Tackett leaped from the saddle and legged it for the door.

"Doc Logan! Hey, Doc Logan!"
he bawled out breathlessly.

"What air ye?"

"Here," Logan called from the partition door.

"Miz Plum's in a bad way agin'
—means business this time. The mountain youth blurted. "She's a-callin' fer ye!"

Logan looked at Griggsby to find the other eyeing him queerly.

"I'm going," Logan said in a grasp tone. "I promised that woman a would."

"Well," he bellowed Griggsby.
"This is what I've been waitin'
for. Get going, son, and good luck!"

...do your canning Electrically

...make every jar a masterpiece!

Fill your shelves with rows and rows of jars of flavorful, perfectly canned food for yourself and your family. And do it better and easier than ever before with an automatic electric range.

The positive controls of an electric range automatically measure the right amount of time and heat—prevents food spoilage.

Your electric range is fast—yet the heat is almost completely confined to the foods being cooked. Electric cooking keeps your kitchen cooler.

In canning as in every cooking task
your electric range is superior.

Much of the hard work of canning is eliminated when you use a fast cooking
electric range with automatic controls.
Processing is faster and easier for your range does the "watching," leaving you free for food preparation and other tasks.

There's an electric range for every taste, for every purse.

MacKenzie's Column

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

A young woman of Cincinnati's "younger generation," who someday "will help to run the government of this great country," wants guidance. For one thing she is told to fear Communism, but: "I don't know what Communism is,
so how can I fear it or fight it?
What is Communism?"

Well, Miss Betty, America can be proud of a younger generation which wants to play its part in government. But what a question to be answered in the short space of one column! However, let's have a go at it, and in plain talk.

Present-day Communism mustn't be confused with the original which was conceived centuries ago.

The old brand was in many respects a beneficent ideology. It abolished all private property and set up a community in which everyone shared equally in everything. In some cases even wives were shared.

Soviet Communism, or Bolshevism, is international in scope and it is militant. The fountain head is Moscow, whence come all tundaments, laws. Countries which become Communist must abandon nationalism and surrender their sovereignty to Moscow. Their allegiance belongs there.

Beneficent aspects of the old-time Communism have been pros-tituted to fit the propaganda needs of a Russian imperialism which openly seeks world domination.

Thus current Communism is a new ideology created to meet a new situation.

Communism is the opposite of capitalism and private initiative,
such as exist in democratic countries. The state controls all resources and means of production.

There is regimentation of the individual in all activities. The completeness of this is shown in the fact that even artists, scientists, dramatists, and what not must subscribe. They can't produce anything which doesn't glorify Communism or add to Red prestige.

Individuals are largely swallowed up by the state.

Those who evade regimentation are "purged"—that is, they are punished—perhaps sent to labor camps, to prison, or even to death. Those who serve the nation best are rewarded in various ways and may become famous.

When Communism came to power in Russia through the revolution of 1917, it established the "third international," or communism, which was known as the general staff for world revolution. It now is called the cominform.

The object of the cominform was to carry revolution to every country in the world, to establish Communist governments. This was undertaken by Red agents which we call fifth columnists.

Now it's important to note that the Red leaders laid it down that every revolution must be accompanied by violence and bloodshed.
This was to impress the importance of the event on the minds of the proletariat.

That's why there has been violence in all the countries which Russia has absorbed as satellites.
In some cases there has been no actual revolution, but there have been "purges" of people opposed to the change.

You ask, Miss Betty, what chance there are of Communism spreading in the United States.
There is small chance if folks like you take the trouble to find out what Communism is.

Family 'Togetherness' Gives Children Happiest Memories

OTHER mothers and fathers of Cub Scouts in a Southern city wondered how 10-year-old Mark's mother and father both found time to be so active in Cub Scouting.

Mark's mother took over her son's den as Den Mother. His father organized the pack to which his little boy's den belonged, presided over the pack meetings, and inspired other parents to take an active part in the Cub Scout program.

I am sure that nothing Mark's mother and father did during the past year means as much to them as the time they devoted to sharing their young son's interest in Scouting.

For today's paper tells of Mark's death in an auto accident. So often we parents, leading busy, crowded lives, feel we haven't the time or energy to share our children's interests.

There is so little time for us to share their experiences, we should somehow find time to do with them the things they consider important, the things we would always be thankful we had done if our children were suddenly taken from us. Or if we are fortunate enough to see our children grown, the things they will look back on as happy moments of their childhood.

A CHARMING woman, whose children are now grown up, told me that when the family was gathered together recently, the children reminded her of a day they still vividly remember. A day when she had left her work to go with them to pick wild flowers. "And you were wearing a dress the very same shade as the bluebonnets we picked," they told her.

The "important" things we do aren't usually the happy memories we give our children. The really happy times are when we put our "important" work aside and share with our children the things that are important to them.

Marconi Bridge Club Announces Warren Tourney

The Marconi Bridge Club announces the dates of September 22, 23 and 24 as the dates for the annual Warren Bridge Tournament.

Players throughout the area look forward to the Warren Tournament as a time for good bridge competition and for renewing friendships made in the years past.

The committee is proud and happy to announce, also, that Al Sobel, top tournament director for the American Contract Bridge League, is returning again this year to direct the tourney. Mr. Sobel conducts a fine game, as will be attested to by those who played here last year.

Plans are progressing rapidly for this outstanding bridge event, with further details to be announced soon by the local committee, which is comprised of Mrs. Albert Rockwell, Mrs. Allie Russell, Mrs. Nick Mangus, Mrs. James Potter, Dr. R. H. Israel, Myer Kornreich, James Valone, D. A. Scalise, A. J. Scalise and Harry Kopf.

SUNSHINE CLUB

Lander Sunshine Club members held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Raymond Falconer, with Mrs. Nelson Spencer assisting. Fourteen members and two guests were present for the one o'clock luncheon and brief business session. The meeting will be held September 8 with Mrs. Harry Light, Mrs. Paul Stanton assisting.

New Pastor For Calvary Baptist

The Rev. Fred T. Miller, who has served churches in Iowa, Chicago, and Kansas, and has just completed a successful ministry of nearly five years in First Baptist church of Chisholm, Minn., will arrive here this week to take up his ministry at Calvary Baptist church, Redwood and Center streets.

Mr. Miller, with his wife and their son, Larry, aged eight, will arrive on Friday and the pastor will occupy the pulpit at both services in the church Sunday. The unified service will be at the usual hour of 9:45 a. m. and the vespers at 7:30 p. m.

The newcomer was born in Belfast, Ireland, received his primary school education in that country and worked there for a few years before emigrating to the United States.

It was during the troublesome days of the early 1920s in Ireland that Mr. Miller was led to a religious experience through the seminary of the Rev. W. P. Nicholson, who was then visiting from America, and it was this experience which ultimately led to Mr. Miller's entry into the ministry.

He was graduated from the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago; received his bachelor of arts degree from Sterling College, Sterling, Kans., and his bachelor of divinity degree from Bethel College and Seminary, St. Paul, Minn. His wife was born in Burlington, Iowa, of Swedish parentage and for some time attended Moody Bible Institute Evening School.

During the past several weeks, Calvary congregation has purchased the house located next to the church property, 120 Redwood St., and has had it remodeled and redecorated for use as a parsonage.

Good progress is being made, also, on the new Sunday school building being erected at the rear of the church and it is hoped that the first floor will be ready for occupancy when the fall work of the church school gets under way.

Fabb Wedding In Ohio of Interest To Local Friends

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Fabb, Chillicothe road, Washington Court House, O., will read with interest the following excerpts from the Record-Herald's account of the wedding of their daughter, Cynthia, who is a granddaughter of Mrs. Sam Q. Smith, Cottage Place, Warren:

The First Presbyterian church was the setting Sunday, August 6, for the wedding of Miss Cynthia Fabb, when she became the bride of Edward Benjamin Hatch, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Hatch, Jr., of Columbus.

Rev. Harold Braden officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Nancy Hatch, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, and Miss Nan Hetherington, cousin of the bride. Howard Kuntz, of Lockland, was best man for the bridegroom and ushers were David Fabb, brother of the bride, Robert Willis and Vernon Semones.

A reception for relatives and close friends followed immediately at the Washington Country Club. Hostesses were Miss Sally Smith, of Warren, Pa., and Mrs. Robert H. Willis, Mrs. Richard R. Willis, assisted by Mrs. Horace Hume of London, served the cake.

Upon their return from a honeymoon through northern Michigan, the couple will reside with the elder Hatches until their new home is completed in Columbus.

Mrs. Hatch is a graduate of Washington Court House High School and attended Ohio State University, where she was pledged to Delta Gamma Sorority.

The bridegroom is a graduate of North High School in Columbus and attended Ohio State University, where he was affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity. He is now laboratory technician at Battelle Institute, Columbus.

Cooperation From Many Sources Aid Blood Project Here

Each blood collection under the National Red Cross Blood Program in Warren county has reached a successful climax due to the 100 percent cooperation of many individuals. Blood donors alone do not deserve all of the praise. Red Cross volunteer workers under the capable leadership of Mrs. R. W. Steber must be on hand to keep things running smoothly.

On August 10, when 100 pints of blood were collected locally, the following served in various capacities: Canteen—Mrs. Howard Alexander, Mrs. David Smith, Mrs. Charles Fox, Mrs. Homer Lewis, Mrs. J. A. Krause, Mrs. J. A. Fino, Mrs. R. G. Smith, Mrs. J. P. Festermacher and Mrs. George Geracimos; Nurses—Mrs. M. H. Deardorff, Mrs. H. D. Hubbs, Mrs. W. B. Erickson, Mrs. Clair Proud and Mrs. Sheridan Brown; Gray Ladies—Mrs. A. R. Stubbs, Mrs. H. R. Lewis, Mrs. G. L. Fine, Mrs. Leo Patsky, Mrs. N. A. Lundahl; Mrs. R. J. Ledebur, Mrs. W. N. Hutchings, Mrs. R. W. Steber; Staff Aides—Mrs. W. F. Crossett, Miss Mildred Blair and Mrs. Donald P. Morgan; Recruitment—Miss Anne DeFrees and Miss Mary Craft.

Other helpers for the day were Boy Scouts Joseph Book, William Manno, Tony Musante and Bob Fitzgerald. From the Warren Borough Street Department assistance came from Lee Webster with William Hunter, Paul Duckett, Harold Jackson, Harold Loomis and William Lehman. Masterston Transfer employees who helped the project were Frank Van Horn and Stanley Seaman. Once again C. Beckley's provided a fan while Turner Radio Shop loaned a record player.

Officials from the Warren County Red Cross take this opportunity to thank all of these people for their aid.

Hunters' Accommodation Folder Being Compiled By Chamber of Commerce

It is announced by Nat Drake, Warren Chamber of Commerce Secretary that his office is now compiling the information to be contained in the 1950-51 edition of the folder—"Accommodations for Hunters and Tourists in Warren County".

Letters are being sent out to all those who were listed last year as willing to furnish accommodations to hunters, and a questionnaire is being enclosed with each letter to secure the necessary information for proper listing in the folder. These questionnaires should be returned to the Chamber of Commerce office no later than September 1st, as the copy for those folders will be turned over to the printer at that time.

This year's questionnaire also asks if summer accommodations are also available, as it is planned to include listings of summer cottages and tourist homes within the folder this year, so these folders can be used for next summer as well as for the coming hunting season.

Any person not formerly listed, but who is willing to furnish accommodations for hunters this fall or tourists next summer, is requested to either drop a postal card or phone the Chamber of Commerce office (470), Warren Bank and Trust Co. Bldg., Warren, Pa., and a questionnaire will be mailed out at once to secure the desired information.

Several thousand of these folders are distributed throughout the state each year in the interest of helping hunters and others obtain accommodations in Warren Co.

Large Log Cabin Camp at Saybrook Damaged By Fire

Sheffield, Aug. 15—A fire of unknown origin caused an estimated damage of $1,500 yesterday morning at the Gilbert Peterson camp near Saybrook. The large log cabin at the camp was not touched by fire but a woodshed and garage filled with lumber and tools were destroyed.

The Sheffield volunteer fire department was called at 10:20 a. m. after Saybrook residents noticed smoke in the vicinity of the camp and notified the owner. Peterson investigated and the alarm was turned in by a Saybrook resident.

Several Saybrook persons formed a bucket brigade to help control the fire waiting for the local fire department to appear on the scene. The firemen, out two hours, hauled five tankfuls of water to extinguish the flames which consumed about 5,000 feet of lumber, stored camp furniture and tools.

Peterson, camp owner who was most enthusiastic over the efforts of the Saybrook residents and Sheffield firemen in fighting the fire, reports the loss was partially covered by insurance.

Frank Bruno, 13, Tiona, was rushed to the Warren General Hospital yesterday afternoon in the Borden ambulance after he had been hit by a truck near the concrete pouring job on the reconstruction of U. S. Route 6. Bruno suffered a fractured hip and is being removed to Hamot Hospital, Erie.

It is believed he stopped to watch the work while he was peddling newspapers when he was struck by a truck which was backing up. The boy's bicycle was damaged.

Word has been received here of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Dean Lewis, Rock City road, Olean, N. Y., on Saturday. The boy, their first child, has not been named as yet.

Mr. Lewis is the son of Harry Lewis, Van Ertan Ave., and Mrs. Lewis is the former Donna Carol Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pierce, Barnes.

Little Kathy Diane Rodgers chose her grandmother's birthday anniversary to be born Sunday at the Warren General Hospital. Kathy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rodgers Jr., Center St., and is the granddaughter of the Eugene Rodgers Sr., Pratt St.

Kathy, who weighed six pounds and a half ounces at birth, has a brother, Bruce, 3-years-old.

Camp Atterbury In Indiana Has Very Colorful History

Camp Atterbury, sprawling Southern Indiana army camp at the south edge of Franklin, Ind., a college town of 8,000 which soon will be the home of the Pennsylvania National Guard's 28th Division, has a colorful World War II history which makes it one of the nation's most vital military reservations.

Originally a training center for combat divisions and units which later compiled standout World War II histories of their own, Camp Atterbury was converted to a personnel center as the war neared its close.

As such, it assumed the role of a reception center for men being inducted into the army, a separation center and door back to the post-war world.

In pre-war years, farm lands occupied the area now comprising Atterbury. But with the advent of World War II, the modern military city grew up—a city which was to function for over four years.

The first word of a military camp in this area came in a news dispatch from Washington, D. C., on April 23, 1941, which said, "A cantonment for 30,000 men will be established outside Franklin if the size of the army increases."

And with the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor on December 6, 1941, construction of the post began.

Delayed by heavy rains and storms and the resulting mud, the 14,000 workers employed in construction referred to the "baby" post as camp "Mudberry."

But on June 2, 1942, the first special order appeared, made up at the old brick headquarters across from the camp bus station. The house was formerly the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Farmerlee.

In early July, 1942, service units arrived and were incorporated into the 156th Service Unit.

More than 100 units received training in Atterbury for overseas duty during the initial three years of the post's history.

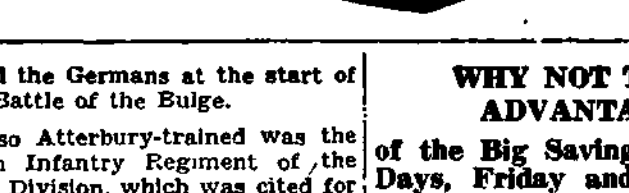

Three of them—33rd, 30th and 106th Divisions—played major roles in bringing about victory in Europe. The 33rd and 30th Divisions were "spearhead" units in the drive across France into Germany and the 106th, along with Pennsylvania's 28th Division, took the brunt of the initial attack and de-played the Germans at the start of the Battle of the Bulge.

Also Atterbury-trained was the 365th Infantry Regiment of the 92nd Division, which was cited for its work in the Italian campaign.

The comparatively new separation center at Camp Atterbury soon reached a peak of 560,855 discharges over a period of about 14 months.

The reception center averaged over 15,000 incoming men a month including enlistees in the regular army.

Even after the real "rush hour" for the reception station was over, still a steady stream of returning overseas men were sent on furlough or to the separation center from that organization.

A vital part of Camp Atterbury is the Wakeman General Hospital, composed of 55 buildings and built to accommodate 2,700 patients. It was activated as a general hospital April 5, 1944, previously having operated as the Camp Atterbury station hospital. When the hospital was closed at the end of 1946, it had treated over 85,000 men and women.

"That's just the first gift," said Generous George. "If you're good boys I'll give you a few more."

"Don't do us any favors," the opponents shouted in unison. George was not a bit abashed by this display of ingratitude. As a matter of fact he did give them another gift just a couple of tricks later.

West opened the king of clubs, and George made his little pronouncement as he allowed West to hold the opening lead. West continued with a low club (his partner had signalled enthusiastically with the jack) and George won with the ace. He entered dummy with a trump to ruff a club and got back with another trump to ruff dummy's last club.

Then, with a few well-chosen words George led the king of spades from his own hand, allowing West to take the trick. West properly exited safely with a spade, dummy ruffing.

At this point the stage was set for the diamond play. George led a low diamond from the dummy and finessed the queen from his own hand.

West was able to win with the

If he returned a diamond it would give declarer a free finesse. If he returned a spade, George would ruff while dummy discarded the only remaining loser.

George's reason for giving away the first trick was that he dared not let East win a club trick. East would gladly return a diamond, which would kill the eventual end play.

When George eventually led the king of spades, his reason was similar.

He had to make sure that only West could win this trick, since, if East were able to gain the lead, he could still return a diamond and spoil George's party.

Incidentally, North's bidding deserves a word or two of praise. His hand was not good enough for a free raise after West had over-called with one spade. However, when South showed a strong hand ## with his reopening double, North could afford to indicate that his hand was far from hopeless despite the fact that he had passed on the first round.

If North had bid merely two hearts, he would have shown a hand of pronounced weakness. By jumping to three hearts, he showed a hand that had almost been worth a free raise on the first round of bidding.

Warren Merchants Win Sunset Baseball League Championship

Three make-up games were played in the Sunset Baseball League last night with the Warren Merchants blanking the Conewang Merchants, 4-0, on Memorial field; Tiona chalking up an 11-6 win over Hammond Iron at the State Hospital field; and the Sons of Italy trimming Suppa Studebakers, 12-5 on the Youngsville field.

Ghetes, handling the chucking for the Warren Merchants, struck out 13 men, walked two and allowed only one hit. He was opposed by Fred Gray, who had five strikeouts, walked five men and allowed three hits, including a double by Bob Hammerbeck.

The win clinched the Sunset League championship for the Merchants, and put them in a highly favored position for their upcoming series with the National Forge.

Thompson, Sons of Italy chucker, was credited with seven strikeouts. He allowed one walk and gave up six hits, including a home run by Spencer. R. Task pitched for Suppa, striking out six men, walking four and giving up 11 safeties.

The Tiona-Hammond Iron clash was a 6-5 game in favor of the Ironmen at the end of three innings when Suppas cut loose for six big runs to clinch the decision.

Lane, Tiona chucker, whiffed nine batters, walked two and yielded five hits. Baker handled the mound chore for Hammonds, and struck out eight men, walked eight and allowed nine hits.

Hot Stove Intermediate Crown Won By Youngsville Merchants

Youngsville Merchants are the champions of the Hot Stove Intermediate League and will represent the Warren Hot Stove League in a state elimination tournament at Tarentum on August 24 and 25.

The Merchants copped the pennant last night by beating the Warren Business College, 14-2, on Wilder Field in the second game of a best out of three playoff series between the Western and Eastern Division winners. The Merchants also had won the opening game of the series to make it a clean sweep.

Lyons again was on the mound for the Merchants and held a tight reign on the contest with good support by his teammates. He struck out eight men, walked three and allowed only seven hits, all singles.

Sorensen pitched the first four

Today's Pro Football Is Tough Physically and Financially

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA (NEA)—It didn't take the hired help long to find out that the professional football picnic—for them—was over. Stalwarts joining up this fall were first to discover that pro football again has a way of making a player forget great college accomplishments other than on the field.

With the settlement of the four-year war and merger of the old National League and new All-America Conference, upcoming athletes found fat bonuses out.

The surviving owners will now go about the business of attempting to get back some of the $8,000,000 the controversy cost.

Eliminating the New York, Buffalo, Chicago and Los Angeles clubs of the All-America Conference gutted the new 13-club National League set-up with experienced warriors.

With outfits having to cut from as many as 60 to 32 by Sept. 16, the date of the kick-off for the championship run, name players failed to survive training.

Stan Heath, the celebrated Nevada passer whom the Green Bay Packers reportedly gave a $15,000 contract before the end of hostilities, was waived out of the circuit.

BOB PIFFERINI of San Jose State, who was the Detroit Lions' first-string center last autumn, wasn't good enough this trip.

Harvey Johnson, who booted 147 out of 149 conversions and 22 field goals for the New York Yankees in the four years of the All-America Conference, signed with the Jersey Giants of the American League.

To what extent a few months changed the life of football players jumping from the campus to cash-and-carry is well illustrated by the case of Ed Songin.

Sorely in need of a quarterback, the New York Yankees a few months back offered Boston College's Songin a three-year agreement calling for $50,000.

Captain of the Eagles' hockey team, and not wishing to place his eligibility in jeopardy, young Songin didn't sign.

Awarded to the Cleveland Browns in the draft with the smoking of the pipe of peace, Songin signed a one-year parchment for considerably less than the original Yankee offer.

After a few days of training, Songin went home. It's tough for any quarterback to move into Otto Graham or Cliff Lewis' shoes.

The few months cost Ed Songin $50,000.

The professional football budget is being balanced with the league.

PHILADELPHIA (NEA)—Joe Louis' mother expresses the belief that her boy is too old to fight.

She fears he may get hurt.

The old adage, "Mother knows best," usually is a pretty sound axiom, but in this case mamma is wrong.

Obviously she hasn't been seeing any fights lately, or she'd realize that the big boys operating in the ring today could not inflict severe damage on a broken-down singer midget, let alone a one-time extraordinary fighter who still carries an H-bomb in both hands.

Unlike Jim Jeffries and Benny Leonard, who also retired undefeated only to attempt comebacks, the Old Brown Bomber won't find any Jack Johnsons or Jimmy McLarnins around to bust him up.

Because he is a cutie, Ezzard Charles in late September should be the more bothersome of the two blokes Louis is to tackle, but the National Guard has never been called out to quell the Cincinnati Negro.

On top of that, Ezzard the Gizzard now has the mental and physical hazard of a heart condition.

CHARLES has been impressive only once, when he knocked out Pat Valentino of the long hair in eight rounds in San Francisco last Oct. 14.

In February of last year, Charles could win nothing more than a disputed split decision from the light-heavyweight, Joey Maxim.

The customers were the only ones hurt as Charles won the National Boxing Association version of the championship from the ancient and honorable Jersey Joe Walcott in Chicago in June of last year.

Shopworn Gus Lesnevich quit of his own accord last August. It wasn't Charles. It was the heat.

Charles should further "qualify" for the match with Louis by beating Freddie Beshore in Buffalo, Aug. 15. Like the others, the Harrisburg, Pa. gladiator can't dent an old felt hat with a sledge hammer.

Lee Savold, with whom Louis plans to get the more important money next June, twice retired as a bartender.

If Joe Louis wants to set his mother's mind at rest, he'd better buy her a television set and see that she keeps it tuned in on some of the dance parathons they're calling heavyweight fights these nights.

But maybe Joe, who has always been a good boy, wouldn't subject his mother to such punishment.

PONY LEAGUE

By The Associated Press

The PONY League-leading Hornell Dodgers lost their third straight last night, bowing to the Batavia Clippers, 3 to 2, in 10 innings.

The runner-up Olean Oilers split a twin bill with Bradford and picked up another half game on Hornell. Bradford won the opener 5-4 but Manager Ken Schulte pecced a four-run ninth inning rally with a two-run triple to lead the Oilers to a 9-8 win in the nightcap.

The Hamilton Cardinals clouted the Jamestown Falcons 8 to 2 and the Wellsville Senators won a saw-saw battle from Lockport 12 to 9.

Games tonight: Hamilton at Jamestown, Lockport at Wellsville, Olean at Bradford, Batavia at Hornell.

Fraternity Squad Posts 7-5 Triumph Over Church Team

The Phalanx Fraternity softball team edged the Grace Methodist 7 to 5 in a Church-"Y" League contest played at Beauty Field last night. A forfeit was taken from the Hi-Y by the Lutherans in the other scheduled game.

Gus Rossman, Phalanx, and Erv Rader, Grace, handled the mound duty all the way for their respective teams.

Wielding the big sticks in the game were Harry Danielson and John Daley for the losers with two for four, and Gerry Huber and A. Anderson for the victors with one for three.

Ned's Learning Every Day

Ned, your newspaperboy, is learning to be a business man because of your daily newspaper. As he makes his rounds, delivering papers each day . . . he's learning business principles that will serve him all through life. He's learning the value of money, the common sense way to save, and how to meet and get along with people. But that's only part of the story.

Ned's learning a lot every day from reading the newspapers he delivers to you. The pictures and the concise reports about what's happening at home and in the world help him understand every day problems. His newspaper tells him what the Boy Scouts, the Y.M.C.A. and other organizations to which he belongs are planning. The sport pages and comics instruct him as well as entertain him.

Ned's just a youngster now, but he's learning the things that will make him a success in life. The newspaper he brings you each day is playing an important part in doing this for him and other boys in our community.

YOUR NEWSPAPER IS YOUR EVERY DAY PARTNER . . . SERVING YOU IN COUNTLESS WAYS.

District Governor Makes Official Visit To Rotary Meeting

A challenge to grasp the spirit of Rotary was thrown out to the members of the Rotary Club by their district governor, Harold E. Burns of New Wilmington, in an address before the club at their dinner meeting yesterday at the YWCA. Preceding the luncheon held for officers and committee chairmen of the club under the leadership of Mr. Burns. Those present were: Francis M. Caughy, president, Percy D. Belknap, secretary, Charles Frantz, Carl Whipple, Roy L. Blodgett, Horace M. Stevenson, Richard J. Costley, Wm. E. Lutz, Nat. W. Drake, Roy M. Krebs, George Horsfield, Horace A. Cray, Frank Parker and Dan. Walton.

In his address before the club Governor Burns emphasized the four objects of Rotary, and suggested a 4-way test for business dealing as recommended by Rotary International. These tests are: 1—Is it the truth? 2—Is it fair to all concerned? 3—Will it build good will and better friendships? and 4—Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

In speaking of Rotary's objective of building international good will and peace he said that when war comes truth is the first casualty, so we should earnestly seek to learn the truth about all nations, and especially about our enemies, and this would not be found in news headlines these days. He recommended reading church periodicals or the Rotarian magazine. He ended his address on an inspirational note which brought every member of the club to his feet following the close of his talk.

Eleven Orthopedic Clinics Next Month For State Children

Harrisburg—Eleven orthopedic diagnostic clinics for crippled children have been scheduled during September by the Pennsylvania Department of Health, it was announced today by Dr. Morris W. Vaux, Secretary of Health.

The clinics have been arranged by the Crippled Children's Division of the Pennsylvania Department of Health. Each clinic is conducted by an orthopedic surgeon who makes recommendations for the care and treatment of the patients examined. Other personnel in attendance will include a nutritionist, a public health nurse, supervisor and staff nurses, shoe-maker, appliance maker, physiotherapist, and a secretary.

It is the purpose of the clinic to examine all crippled children who are in need of attention and are not receiving it. In providing this diagnostic service the State Department of Health cooperates in many counties with the Pennsylvania Society for Crippled Children and Adults, War Veterans' Organizations and Service Clubs.

Physicians are invited to refer or bring into the clinic any orthopedic cases they may have in charge.

Dates and places of Fall clinics for crippled children to be held in October and November throughout the State will be announced later, Dr. Vaux said.

The schedule of September clinics follows: Coudersport, Court House, Sept. 6; Wellboro, Court House, Sept. 7; Meadville, Meadville City Hosp., Sept. 12; Punxsutawney, State Clinic, Sept. 13; Altoona, Altoona Hospital, Sept. 14; Montrose, American Legion Home, Sept. 18; Towanda, Court House, Sept. 20; Danville, Geisinger Mem. Hosp., Sept. 21; Butler, Presbyterian Church, Sept. 26; Kittanning, Armstrong Co. Genl. Hosp., Sept. 27; Huntingdon, J. C. Blair Hospital, Sept. 28.

R for Safety

The "why" and "how" of infectious diseases and the body's resistance to them have long occupied the medical minds of the world. Many questions are still in the process of solution, yet some fatal diseases of our grandmother's day are no longer regarded as dangerous if—

The "IF" is important. It means that if we see our doctor at the first signs of physical distress there is less opportunity for the germs to attack a weakened body and a greater opportunity for a complete cure.

Reporting your condition to your doctor saves much suffering, and saves much of his precious time. It is a great deal easier, and less expensive, to cure a cold than a case of pneumonia.

Our part is merely to follow orders—those of your family physician. This we do in the most ethical way, and employ only the best drugs known to medical science.

Every prudent investor should ask himself certain questions from time to time, such as: "Is my money earning me a satisfactory rate of interest?" "Have my investments been profitable?" "In the light of today's conditions are my holdings in safe and conservative investments?" "Is the future outlook for my holdings bright or does it appear to be doubtful?"

If in doubt, why not buy Investment Trust shares in one certificate covering many of our country's leading industrial companies and with that investment obtain experienced management and supervision of your investments?

Fine Weather and Special Attractions Boost Playgrounds Attendance to 10,000

The combination of fine weather throughout the week and the annual Doll Show contests on Wednesday and Thursday brought attendance figures nearly to the 10,000 mark at Warren borough playgrounds last week.

Wednesday's shows, held at individual play spots, showed an entry list of 750 dolls and a record high of 1,048 for attendance. Finals on Thursday at Crescent playground were attended by 275 children and grownups.

This week's special include the scavenger hunt and winner roast scheduled last night at South street area at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, and a bathing beauty contest at Crescent at 2:30 p. m. Friday. Children from all play areas will enter this last competition.

For the Mardi Gras, when parents and children from all parts of town are invited, there will be a fancy costume parade, with prizes for the best decorated bike, best float, wagon or carriage; ice cold pop will be on sale, and there will be a popsicle bar. There will also be the crowning of the King and Queen of the Mardi Gras. Prizes for this outstanding event are being given by merchants of the Home street area.

Plans are under way for a car show for the boys of town, details to be announced a bit later.

Finalists for the Doll Show are announced by Director Inez Rudolph as follows:

Best character—Peggy Williams, Home street; largest, Joyce Wert; Beauty, smallest, Nancy Rose, Lacy; most beautiful, Gretchen Morris, Lacy; funniest, Sally Andrews, Lacy; best handmade outfit, Kendall Kinander, West Side; oldest china doll, Patty Allen, Crescent, whose entry was 175 years old; twin dolls, Jackie Young, Lacy; foreign, Mary Hagstrom, Beauty; largest number of dolls entered, Charlotte Stone and Robbie Sugerman.

Judges for the finals were Mrs. Warren Yeagle, Mrs. Paul Braunschweiger and Mrs. Harold McNulty. Every finalist was presented a gift candy bar and prizes were awarded the winners by Ruby's Yarn and Art Shop, Hazel Pangborn's Gift Shop, Woolworth's, East Side Five and Ten Cent Store, Widmann and Tech, G. C. Murphy, S. S. Kresge Company. In the individual playground shows, winner and judges are recorded as follows:
